CIRCUIT INFO

Brno has hosted motorcycle World Championship Grand Prix since 1965, and World Superbikes have also raced here for many years. Until 1986 racing took place on a road circuit on the outskirts of Brno, but in 1987 all racing activities transferred to the new Masaryk Ring circuit.

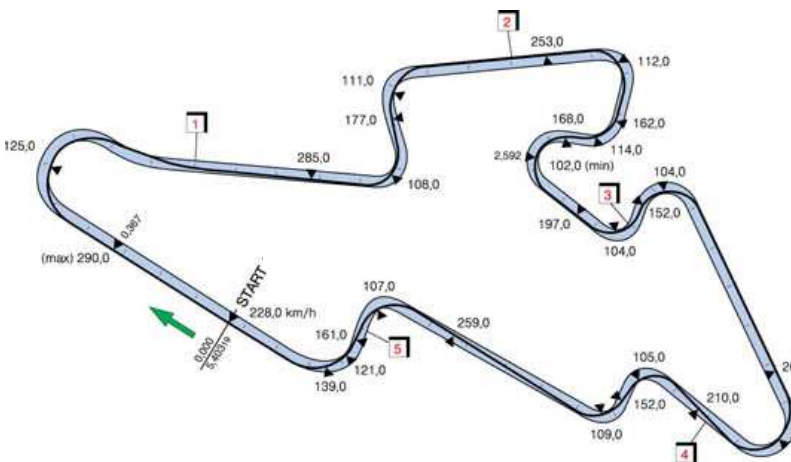

This circuit is truly vast – it is long and flowing with a great mix of corners and some huge elevation changes, and the circuit is 15 metres wide, which is 3 to 5 metres wider than most other circuits – so there's plenty of space to play with!

The Brno area is a great place to visit too – the surrounding countryside and the historic city of Brno are outstanding and there are many interesting places to visit. And food & drink, etc. is unbelievably cheap in the Czech Republic (much cheaper than Spain & Portugal) – a pint of beer and a nice big fillet steak costs around £7 for example – all of which means that a trip to Brno offers excellent value overall.
